

Plein Air Painter of New Mexico Presents

Frank LaLumia Plein Air Workshop

June 10-13, 2016

Santa Fe, New Mexico

www.FrankLaLumia.com

"Trinidad" 8x10 Oil

“One of the great epiphanies on the artistic road is the realization that we are painting light, not things. We leave the comfort of our studios to learn this lesson. If you can paint light, you can paint everything under the sun.”

This FOUR-DAY workshop will address TWO BIG CONCEPTS often overlooked or misunderstood that are crucial to the success of a painting:

WEAK, COLLAPSING OR NON-EXISTENT VALUE STRUCTURE
and
INNACURATE COLOR NOTES

“In the beginning, a landscape painting is an inventory of stuff: a sky, a mountain, some trees, etc. With experience the objects recede in importance, and what emerges in replacement are color/value relationships. The tree becomes a piece of color/value with specific relationships to the other pieces of the landscape. Your tree has a greater reality as a piece of color and value than it ever will as a tree. Understand this and move ahead.”

~Artists of all levels are invited ~ Watercolorists are welcome ~
Demonstrations will be done in oil~

The fee for this wonderful opportunity is $475 with a maximum of 15 students. View the Class Outline, register and pay at www.papnm.org. Click on the workshop from the home page and follow the link. A waitlist will be kept by PAPNM if class fills.

This is what workshop attendees have said-

“After plein air painting for 20 years or so, I finally ‘got it’ with Frank’s instruction. All I’ve learned before came together!” Judy P., CA

“Have to tell you again what an excellent teacher you are and how helpful your direction has been. It’s remarkable how much valuable information I got out of such a short period.” Dave D., NH
